JDT10

“We [dancers] experience the human condition in real time...we create art that will literally never exist again. Its power lies in its moment of disappearance, its moment on the stage.”

-Rebecca Levy, Artistic Director (Folio Weekly)

FROM THE ARTISTIC DIRECTOR

When I relocated to Jacksonville, FL in 2010 I felt incredibly welcome. The cultural arts scene was an inclusive and accessible community, but one in need of a professional dance company. Jacksonville Dance Theatre came to be when a group of professional dance artists living in Jacksonville, FL saw the need for a contemporary dance company to fill out the growing artistic landscape of the City. The idea immediately gained popularity, and the company grew so quickly it could hardly keep up with the performances it was being asked to participate in. The company brings innovative artistic statements to the First Coast, and supports an ensemble of dance artists in their professional goals. None of this would have been possible without the participation of JDT's founding directors, the board, and the community of Jacksonville.

Jacksonville Dance Theatre proudly fits on the world stage as an emerging professional dance company of high artistic caliber. We strongly identify with the "Jacksonville" in our name, and through outstanding goals toward artistic development, a strong educational initiative, and innovative new performance, JDT is honored to represent the City as Jacksonville's own contemporary dance company. Success and longevity are our goals, and joining dance with Jacksonville's thriving visual and performing arts scene is of the utmost importance in our mission. I am honored to be a part of this organization, and thrilled with the response. Your support is what makes it possible for JDT to continue to create dance for our community!

“Kitchen Sink, performed by Jacksonville Dance Theater and choreographed by Rebecca R. Levy, was dark and gentle, and full of heartache, ushered in by Patsy Cline. A couple...got together and broke apart and got back together only to break up again. It was the break-up they were addicted to, the space between each other. They were activated by wanting each other and dysfunctional when they had each other.”
